

Young Aviators Update

March 2015

Last month, we told you about the invitation from Bill Busch and Wings Over the Rockies for a radio and navigation presentation. We had a great turnout of 21 adults and 14 kids. We learned a lot about radio systems used in different wars.

At the end of January, the hangar where the Aviators are working on the B25 got a heater! We had spent some COLD weekends in there but now are working in a toasty warm building.

The B25 team leads are reporting that all systems are on schedule for the plane. It will be ready to go to Cockpit Day at Wings Over the Rockies this June 20. Make sure it's on your calendar to come out and see the kids do their presentation here in Colorado before the road trip to Wisconsin.

Updates are posted by team leads at youngaviators43.com > B25 > Updates, but here is a run-down. The plexiglass nose has been formed and the interior sheet metal is complete and getting ready to paint. The systems team is busy designing the electrical components and interfaces.

The weather created a bit of a challenge for one of the work sessions this month and it had to be rescheduled. That was okay with Scott and Eric Serani though! The new date was a day that they were able to attend. During the big snow storm, they were in Florida visiting Chapter 188. Their visit was incredibly warmly received when they attended the Chapter meeting and a meeting of their newly formed Young Aviator group. The Serani's helped the FLYA crew launch the build on the simulator project. It will be fun to watch their progress and offer tips as they venture on. Or course, after a visit to the Kennedy Space Center and the Daytona 500, I think that the guys might decide to check in personally each February!

Several months ago, we introduced the new art that Dalton Dome submitted and the kids voted on for a new logo. While working on apparel for the club, we realized that we would need some color and a little more identity for Colorado and our Mile High Chapter. This re-design has been completed and voted on by the kids.

We will have gear available on our website if you are interested. Please subscribe to our updates (see below) if you think you want to place an order. The orders will be placed in bulk to manage expenses. The first order will probably be completed before the next chapter newsletter. Never fear, though, because we will be running some extra shirts to sell at air shows for fund raising!

If you would like to receive the updates and reminders from the Young Aviators, please send your contact info to Andrea caa43youngaviators@gmail.com and request to be put on the list. It's only a few emails a month.
